Sections 1983 and 1988, and of rights secured by the Fourth, Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution, and the common law and the laws of the State of New York. On September 26, 2018, at approximately 6:00 p.m., plaintiff Cynthia Thomas, while lawfully in the vicinity of 482 Monroe Street, Brooklyn, New York, was subject to an unlawful stop, question, frisk, search, false arrest, and false imprisonment by the defendant New York City police officers. In addition, Plaintiff was subjected to an assault, battery, and use of excessive force by the defendant officers when the defendant police officer forcibly grabbed and pulled Plaintiff's arm, causing her to suffer a back injury. Plaintiff was then unlawfully imprisoned at the 81st Precinct and Brooklyn Central Booking for approximately 24 hours until plaintiff was arraigned in Criminal Court, charged with crimes she did not commit, and released on her own recognizance. Plaintiff was denied the right to due process and a fair trial until the prostitution charges against plaintiff were dismissed and sealed on September 5, 2019. Plaintiff was deprived of her constitutional and common law rights when the individual defendants unlawfully stopped, questioned, frisked, searched, confined, assaulted, battered, subjected to excessive force, falsely arrested, falsely imprisoned, denied medical treatment, and denied plaintiff the right to due process and a fair trial in violation of the Fourth, Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution, the common law and the laws of the State of New York.

19. Defendants, specifically, grabbed Plaintiff while she was exiting a bodega on Monroe Street.

20. Defendants asked for Plaintiffs ID.

21. Plaintiff put her hand in her pocket to retrieve her ID for the Officers.
