Synopsis

§ 87(2)(b) alleged that on January 17, 2006, at 1:20 A.M., officers banged on her door while she was sleeping in her apartment located at § 87(2)(b) in Brooklyn. P. O. Joseph Collora told § 87(2)(b) to, "open the fucking door (Allegation a - discourtesy)," and threatened to kick her door down (Allegation b - abuse of authority). § 87(2)(b) opened the door and told the officers that they could not enter her apartment without a warrant. § 87(2)(b) then began to close the door, but P. O. Matthew Granahan placed the handle of his gun between the door and the door jam (Allegation c - abuse of authority). § 87(2)(b) told P. O. Granahan to remove his gun from the doorway or she would sue him. § 87(2)(b) also told the officers that the only other person in the apartment was her son, § 87(2)(b). § 87(2)(b) was behind § 87(2)(b) and one of the officers called § 87(2)(b) a, "baby crack dealer. (Allegation d - discourtesy)." § 87(2)(b) pulled § 87(2)(b) who was standing behind her, in front of her. The officers left once they saw § 87(2)(b). § 87(2)(b) was not who they were after. As the officers were leaving, § 87(2)(b) asked the officers for their badge number, however, P. O. Collora replied, "No, you're not getting shit." Sgt. Courtien and P. O. Granahan replied, "Fuck you (Allegation e & f - discourtesy)." The officers then walked away and did not provide their name and badge number to § 87(2)(b) (Allegation g, h, & i - abuse of authority).

§ 87(2)(g)
it is recommended that allegation c be unfounded. § 87(2)(g) it is recommended that allegation d be closed officer unidentified. § 87(2)(g) it is recommended that the allegations a, b, and e - i be unsubstantiated.

Summary of Complaint

§ 87(2)(b) has made five statements regarding this incident. The first was § 87(2)(b)'s intake statement made via the CCRB call processing system on January 17, 2006 (enc. 6 B). The second was § 87(2)(b)'s initial telephone statement made on February 1, 2006 (enc. 7 A). The third was § 87(2)(b)'s follow up telephone statement on February 3, 2006 (enc. 8 A). The fourth was § 87(2)(b)'s formal CCRB statement made on February 16, 2006 (enc. 9 B). The fifth statement was § 87(2)(b)'s photo array interview conducted at the CCRB on September 1, 2006 (enc. 10B – 10J). § 87(2)(g)

On January 17, 2006, at approximately 1:20 A. M., inside of § 87(2)(b) in Brooklyn, § 87(2)(b) and her son, § 87(2)(b) were asleep in § 87(2)(b)'s apartment and were the only people inside of that apartment. § 87(2)(b) and § 87(2)(b) were awakened by the sound of buzzing at the intercom. § 87(2)(b) learned from § 87(2)(b) that the police were at the door.

At that point, § 87(2)(b) heard the sound of banging and kicking at her door. § 87(2)(b) asked who was at her door and she was told that it was the police. § 87(2)(b) also said that she heard the voice of P. O. Joseph J. Collora, who she identified through a photo array and described as a, "big and fat," white male with a mustache dressed in plain clothes tell her to, "Open the fucking door." § 87(2)(b) responded by asking why the police officers were at her apartment and P. O. Collora replied, "Well open the fucking door or we'll kick it down." While § 87(2)(b) identified P. O. Collora by voice, she did not see which officer actually threatened to kick her door down.

§ 87(2)(b) asked that the officers show their identification and P. O. Collora placed his badge against the peephole. § 87(2)(b) opened the door approximately one foot and P. O. Collora told § 87(2)(b) that somebody ran into her apartment. § 87(2)(b) stated that Sgt. David Courtien, who she identified through a photo array and described as a tall white male dressed in plain clothes, as well as P. O. Matthew T. Granahan, who she described as a white male dressed in plain clothes, accompanied P. O. Collora. § 87(2)(b) explained that no one ran into her apartment and P. O. Collora told § 87(2)(b) that the officers wanted to see who was inside her apartment.

§ 87(2)(b) told P. O. Collora to get a warrant and began to close the door, however,

P. O. Granahan placed the handle of his gun between the door and the door jam. § 87(2)(b) stated during her initial telephone statement that officers pointed guns through her door, however, during her follow up telephone statement, § 87(2)(b) clarified that P. O. Granahan placed either his baton or gun handle between the door and the door jam. During § 87(2)(b)'s formal interview, she was certain that P. O. Granahan placed the handle of his gun between the door and the door jam, but could not provide the specific positioning of the trigger and the gun barrel. Once § 87(2)(b) threatened to sue P. O. Granahan, he removed the gun from the door. § 87(2)(b) initially indicated during her formal interview that P. O. Granahan placing the handle of his gun between the door and the door jam was the only thing preventing her from closing the door, but later indicated that P. O. Collora was pushing the door open.

Throughout this time, § 87(2)(b) and Sgt. Courtien were exchanging conversation. § 87(2)(b) tried to explain to the officers that no one ran into the apartment and Sgt. Courtien called § 87(2)(b) a, "Drug dealer baby crack – crack baby drug dealer."

After P. O. Granahan removed his gun from § 87(2)(b)'s door jam, § 87(2)(b) told the officers that her, "baby," was the only other person inside the apartment. The officers asked § 87(2)(b) her baby's age and she informed them that § 87(2)(b) was twenty years old. § 87(2)(b) was standing behind § 87(2)(b). § 87(2)(b) pulled § 87(2)(b) in front of her, so that the officers could see that § 87(2)(b) was inside her house. The officers shined a flashlight on § 87(2)(b)'s face because the apartment's lights were off.

The officers began to leave once they saw that § 87(2)(b) was not who they were after. § 87(2)(b) told the officers that, "Now, I need to get your badge number." During her formal interview, § 87(2)(b) said that all three officers replied, "No, you're not getting shit. Fuck you." and began laughing. However, during her photo array interview, she explained that P. O. Joseph Copllora told her, "No, you're not getting shit," and P. O. Granahan and Sgt. Courtien told her, "Fuck you." § 87(2)(b) obtained a pen and paper from § 87(2)(b) and ran after the officers to get their name and badge number, however, the officers left in an unmarked black car.

Results of Investigation

Civilian Witnesses:

§ 87(2)(b) identified § 87(2)(b) as being the only witness to the incident. To date, no other witnesses have been located.

§ 87(2)(b)

§ 87(2)(b) has provided two statements regarding this incident. The first was § 87(2)(b)'s formal interview conducted at the CCRB on February 16, 2006 (enc. 11 B). The second was § 87(2)(b)'s photo array interview conducted at the CCRB on September 1, 2006 (enc. 12 B – 12 J).

§ 87(2)(b) corroborated that on January 17, 2006, at approximately 1:20 A. M., inside of § 87(2)(b) in Brooklyn, he and his mother, § 87(2)(b) were awakened by three police officers dressed in plain clothes. According to § 87(2)(b) the police were saying, "Open the door. We'll kick it in. We know you in there. Ya'll in there."

§ 87(2)(b) told the officers that she did not call the police and they could not kick in the door without a warrant. § 87(2)(b) asked that the officers show a badge and then opened the door ajar. The officers told § 87(2)(b) that they knew someone ran into her apartment and asked to see the other person that was in the apartment. When § 87(2)(b) said, "It's just me and my baby," the officers "negatively replied, 'We saw your crack dealing baby run into your apartment.'" However, at a later point in the interview, § 87(2)(b) said that the officers called him a, "crack dealing baby," before the door was open. During his photo array interview, § 87(2)(b) identified P. O. Joseph J Collora as the officer who called him a, "crack dealing baby."

During his formal interview, § 87(2)(b) made repeated reference to, "negative language," but no reference to the officers cursing. § 87(2)(b) was asked if the officers cursed. § 87(2)(b) said that before the door opened the officers said, "a lot of fucks," and specifically remembers the words, "Open the fucking door." § 87(2)(b) was not sure if the officers cursed after the door was opened.

During the incident, § 87(2)(b) described himself as, “Quiet as a mouse.” § 87(2)(b) did not say anything to the officers and stood behind his mother. § 87(2)(b) told the officers that her son did not deal crack. While § 87(2)(b) did not see the officers put their hands on the door, he could tell the officers were pushing the door by how § 87(2)(b) was stumbling backwards. § 87(2)(b) identified P. O. Collora as the officer who pushed on the door. § 87(2)(b) was asked if the officers had their guns drawn and replied, “Not that I know of.” § 87(2)(b) was asked if he saw the officers’ guns drawn and replied, “No.”

The officers said, “Can we see him? If you claim he’s not a crack dealer, can we see how he look[s]?” At that point, § 87(2)(b) pulled § 87(2)(b) in front of her and opened the door wider. The officers shined a flashlight on § 87(2)(b)’s face and quickly walked away. § 87(2)(b) initially indicated that the officers did not say anything at this point. At another point in the interview, § 87(2)(b) said the officers stated, “We know you’re a crack head. That was him. We saw you run into the apartment.”

§ 87(2)(b) said that § 87(2)(b) asked the officers for their badge numbers immediately after the officers saw § 87(2)(b)’s face, but the officers simply ran away.

Identification of Officer:

Sgt. David Courtien, P. O. Joseph Collora, P. O. Matthew Granahan, and P. O. John Hanley are listed as being assigned to an anti - crime unit on the Tour 1 Roll Call for the 77th Precinct (enc. 21 A and enc. 21 B). During their formal interviews, Sgt. David Courtien, P. O. Joseph Collora, P. O. Matthew Granahan, and P. O. John Hanley have all admitted being involved with this incident (enc. 14 B, 16 B, 18 B and 20 B). In addition, § 87(2)(b) identified through a photo array Sgt. David Courtien, P. O. Matthew Granahan, and P. O. Joseph Collora as being involved with this incident (enc. 10 B, 10 F, 10 G, and 10 J). § 87(2)(b) also identified P. O. Joseph Collora as having involvement with this incident (enc. 12 B and 12 D).

P. O. Joseph Collora:

During P. O. Joseph Collora’s formal interview (enc. 18 B) conducted at the CCRB on May 30, 2006, P. O. Collora had no memo book entries regarding this incident (enc. 17 B – 17 C).

On January 17, 2006, P. O. Collora was assigned to an anti - crime unit and was working with Sgt. David Courtien, P. O. Matthew Granahan, and P. O. John Hanley. At approximately 1:20 A. M., in the vicinity of § 87(2)(b) in Brooklyn, the officers observed § 87(2)(b) walking across the street holding his waste band on the right side. This indicated that § 87(2)(b) may have had a gun. P. O. Collora, P. O. Granahan, and Sgt. Courtien approached § 87(2)(b) and announced themselves as police officers. § 87(2)(b) ran into a building and P. O. Collora, P. O. Granahan, and Sgt. Courtien pursued him.

P. O. Collora saw the individual run into an apartment and the officers knocked on the apartment door. P. O. Collora stated that no officer threatened to kick down the door and that no officer said the words, “Open the fucking door,” or the words, “Well open the fucking door or we’ll kick it down.” No conversation was exchanged between the occupants of the apartment and the officers between the time that the officers knocked on the door and it opened..

When the door opened, § 87(2)(b) stood between the officers and § 87(2)(b). The officers asked § 87(2)(b) if anyone ran into her apartment and she informed them that her son was the individual that had entered her apartment. P. O. Collora did not recall which officers actually spoke to the mother. During that time, § 87(2)(b) stood behind his mother and gave the officers, “the finger.”

No officer called § 87(2)(b) a, “drug dealer baby crack – crack baby drug dealer,” or a, “crack head.” No officer told § 87(2)(b) “We saw your crack dealing baby run into your apartment.” The officers never made reference to crack.

§ 87(2)(b) did not try to close the door on the officers and there was no struggle between the mother and the officers. P. O. Collora also said that throughout this incident no officer had a gun drawn. P. O. Collora was asked if any officer stuck a gun between the door and the door jam and replied, “That would be kind of stupid.” P. O. Collora also stated that action did not happen.

The officers were not asked to provide their name and shield number. No officer told § 87(2)(b) “No you’re not getting shit. Fuck you,” and no officer told § 87(2)(b) “Shut the fuck up.” The officers left, once it was determined that § 87(2)(b) who was pursued by the officers, was actually the son of § 87(2)(b) who opened the apartment door.

P. O. Matthew Granahan:

During P. O. Matthew Granahan’s formal interview (enc. 16 B) conducted at the CCRB on May 17, 2006, P. O. Granahan had no memo book entries regarding this incident (enc. 15 B).

P. O. Matthew Granahan corroborated that on January 17, 2006, at approximately 1:20 A. M., in the vicinity of § 87(2)(b) in Brooklyn, he was assigned to an anti - crime team and was working with Sgt. David Courtien, P. O. Joseph Collora, and P. O. John Hanley. P. O. Granahan corroborated that the officers observed § 87(2)(b) see them, grab his waste, and run into a building. Sgt. Courtien, P. O. Collora, and P. O. Granahan followed § 87(2)(b) into the building and saw him go inside a first floor apartment. P. O. Granahan corroborated that the officers left once § 87(2)(b) informed the officers that § 87(2)(b) was her son and lived in the apartment. The officers did not say anything to § 87(2)(b) because his mother assured them, “everything was okay.”

No officer threatened to break down the apartment door or drew a gun. There was no struggle at the door and no officer placed the handle of a gun between the door jam and the door to prevent it from closing. P. O. Granahan did not remember if the officers were ever asked to provide their name and shield number. No officer used the words, “Well open the fucking door or we’ll kick it down,” “No, you’re not getting shit. Fuck you,” or , “Shut the fuck up.” P. O. Granahan did not remember an officer using the word, “fuck.” No officer made reference to § 87(2)(b)’s son being a, “crack head,” or called him a, “drug dealer baby crack – crack baby drug dealer.” At no point in time was § 87(2)(b) told, “We saw your crack dealing baby run into your apartment.”

Sgt. David Courtien:

During Sgt. David Courtien’s formal interview (enc. 20 B) conducted at the CCRB on May 30, 2006, Sgt. Courtien had no memo book entries regarding this incident (enc. 19 B).

Sgt. Courtien stated that on January 17, 2006, he was supervising an anti - crime team and was working with P. O. John Hanley, P. O. Joseph Collora, P. O. Matthew Granahan, and P. O. Edgar Bourdon. Sgt. Courtien corroborated that the officers observed § 87(2)(b) adjust and grab something in his waste band. § 87(2)(b) began running as soon as he saw the officers. Sgt. Courtien explained that § 87(2)(b) running while holding his waste band and the fact that the officers were patrolling an area where numerous gun and drug arrests had previously occurred, lead them to suspect that § 87(2)(b) may have had a weapon or paraphernalia that could not be seen. Unlike P. O. Collora, Sgt. Courtien stated that the officers had no time to announce themselves as police officers. Sgt. Courtien corroborated that he pursued § 87(2)(b) along with P. O. Granahan and P. O. Collora.

Sgt. Courtien also corroborated that the officers saw § 87(2)(b) run into an apartment. The officers left once they learned from § 87(2)(b) that § 87(2)(b) was her son and lived in the apartment. No officer threatened to break down the door to the apartment. Sgt. Courtien denied that any officer said the words, “Open the fucking door,” or the phrase, “Well open the fucking door or we’ll kick it down.” No officer drew his gun during the incident and no officer placed the handle of his gun or any object between the door and the door jam.

Sgt. Courtien stated that he did not hear an officer call § 87(2)(b) a “crackhead,” or a, “drug dealer baby crack – crack baby drug dealer.” No officer told § 87(2)(b) “We saw your crack dealing baby run into your apartment.” Sgt. Courtien said that § 87(2)(b) did not ask the name and badge number of the officers and denied that the officers responded to such a request by saying, “No, you’re not getting shit. Fuck you.” No officer told § 87(2)(b) to, “Shut the fuck up.” No member of service used the words, “fuck,” or, “shit,” during the incident.

Sgt. Courtien corroborated that the officers left once it was determined that § 87(2)(b) lived in the apartment because § 87(2)(b) was not wanted for a crime and the officers simply wanted to confirm that he lived in the apartment.

P. O. John Hanley:

During P. O. John Hanley's formal interview (enc. 14 B), conducted at the CCRB on May 17, 2006, P. O. John Hanley had no memo book entries regarding this incident (enc. 13 B).

P. O. Hanley corroborated that on January 17, 2006, he was assigned to an anti - crime unit and was working with Sgt. David Courtien, P. O. Matthew Granahan, and P. O. Joseph Collora. P. O. Hanley also corroborated that at approximately 1:20 A. M., in the vicinity of § 87(2)(b) in Brooklyn, the officers observed § 87(2)(b) spot them and begin running. P. O. Hanley explained that § 87(2)(b) was holding his side, specifically his right hip, which lead the officers to believe that he had a firearm. P. O. Hanley remained with the vehicle, while Sgt. Courtien, P. O. Granahan, and P. O. Collora pursued the male into the building. P. O. Hanley did not observe what happened inside of the building. No officer had a gun drawn in P. O. Hanley's presence. P. O. Hanley also did not see § 87(2)(b) ask any officer for a name and badge number. P. O. Hanley stated that no officer used the word, "fuck," or, "shit," in his presence.

Additional Officers:

While Sgt. Courtien identified P. O. Edgar Bourdon as working with his anti - crime team the night of the incident, P. O. Bourdon is listed as having a chart day on the tour that overlaps the relevant time of this incident (enc. 21 E). § 87(2)(b) and § 87(2)(b) identified three officers as being involved with this incident and P. O. Hanley, P. O. Collora, and P. O. Granahan did not identify P. O. Bourdon as being involved in the incident. For these reasons, P. O. Bourdon was not interviewed regarding this incident.

Officer History:

Sgt. David Courtien has been a member of service for twelve years, during that time he has no substantiated CCRB complaints (enc. 1 A).

P. O. Matthew Granahan has been a member of service for five years, during that time he has one substantiated CCRB complaint. In CCRB 200409370 the Board substantiated a complaint that P. O. Granahan issued a retaliatory summons to an individual and P. O. Granahan received instruction (enc. 2 A).

P. O. Joseph Collora has been a member of service for thirteen years, during that time he has four substantiated CCRB complaints (enc 3 A – 3 B). In CCRB 20031705, the Board substantiated that P. O. Collora improperly frisked and threatened to arrest an individual as well as called that individual, "a fucking liar." § 87(4-b) § 87(2)(g) The DCT hearing found P. O. Collora not guilty on the charges of an improper frisk and threat of arrest, but found P. O. Collora guilty of using a discourteous word. P. O. Collora was penalized five vacation days. In 20031790, the Board substantiated an allegation that P. O. Collora improperly frisked § 87(2)(b), but charges were dismissed at DCT.

Civilian History:

§ 87(2)(b) is the complainant in CCRB § 87(2)(b) and § 87(2)(b) is a victim in CCRB § 87(2)(b) (enc. 4 A and 5 A). § 87(2)(b) [§ 87(2)(b)] [§§ 86(1)(3)&(4)] [§ 87(2)(c)]

Conclusions and Recommendations

Disputed and Undisputed Facts:

On January 17, 2006, at approximately 1:20 A.M., in the doorway of § 87(2)(b) § 87(2)(b) Sgt. Courtien, P. O. Collora and P. O. Granahan did knock on the door to § 87(2)(b)'s apartment. The officers did tell § 87(2)(b) that they came to her apartment because they observed an individual run into the apartment. § 87(2)(g)

Analyses of Credibility:

§ 87(2)(g)

[REDACTED]

Allegation A – Abuse of authority - P. O. Joseph Collora spoke rudely to § 87(2)(b)
Allegation B – Abuse of authority - P. O. Joseph Collora threatened to damage § 87(2)(b)'s property.

§ 87(2)(b) alleged that she heard P. O. Collora tell her to, “Open the fucking door,” as well as say, “Well open the fucking door or we’ll kick it down.” § 87(2)(b) stated that he remembered the phrase, “Open the fucking door.” § 87(2)(b) also alleged that P. O. Collora told her, “You’re not getting shit,” when she asked the officers provide a name and shield number. P. O. Collora, P. O. Granahan, and Sgt. Courtien all deny that any officer ever used those phrases, or threatened to break down the door. § 87(2)(g)

§ 87(2)(g) it is recommended that allegation a be and allegation b be unsubstantiated.

Allegation C – Abuse of authority - P. O. Matthew Granahan drew his gun.

§ 87(2)(b) alleged that P. O. Matthew Granahan stuck the handle of his gun between the door and the door jam. § 87(2)(g)

§ 87(2)(b) P. O. Granahan, P. O. Collora, and Sgt. Courtien deny that an officer ever drew his gun during the incident. § 87(2)(g)

§ 87(2)(b) indicated in her follow up phone statement that she was unsure whether P. O. Granahan placed a gun or baton between the door and the door jam. § 87(2)(g)

§ 87(2)(g) it is recommended that allegation c be unfounded.

Allegation D – Discourtesy - An officer spoke rudely to § 87(2)(b)

During a photo array interview, § 87(2)(b) identified Sgt. John Courtien as the officer who called her son a, “crack dealing baby.” However, § 87(2)(b) identified P. O. Joseph Collora as the officer who called him a crack dealing baby. § 87(2)(g) § 87(2)(g) it is recommended that allegation d be closed officer unidentified.

Allegation E – Discourtesy - Sgt. David Courtien spoke rudely to § 87(2)(b)
Allegation F – Abuse of authority - P. O. Matthew Granahan spoke rudely to § 87(2)(b)
Allegation G – Abuse of authority - Sgt. David Courtien refused to provide his name and shield number to § 87(2)(b)
Allegation H – Abuse of authority - P. O. Joseph Collora refused to provide his name and shield number to § 87(2)(b)
Allegation I – Abuse of authority P. O. Matthew Granahan refused to provide his name and shield number to § 87(2)(b)

§ 87(2)(b) alleged that after she asked the officers to provide their name and badge number, Sgt. Courtien and P. O. Granahan both said, “Fuck you.” Sgt. Courtien, P. O. Collora, and P. O. Granahan then walked away without providing their name and badge number. P. O. Collora and Sgt. Courtien deny that they were ever asked to provide a name and shield number, while P. O. Granahan did not recall if he was asked to provide a name and shield number. § 87(2)(g) it is recommended that allegations f, g, h, and i be closed unsubstantiated.
