Case Summary

On December 1, 2017, § 87(2)(b) filed this complaint on behalf of her husband, § 87(2)(b) with IAB via telephone. The complaint was received at the CCRB on December 8, 2017.

On April 29, 2017, at approximately 6 p.m., Police Officer Donald Harris of the 27th Precinct detained § 87(2)(b) near the intersection of § 87(2)(b) and § 87(2)(b) and at the 47th Precinct stationhouse in the Bronx (Allegation A: Abuse of Authority, exonerated).

En route to the 47th Precinct stationhouse, Police Officer John Londono, also of the 47th Precinct, told § 87(2)(b) to “shut the fuck up” (Allegation B: Discourtesy, unsubstantiated).

PO Harris rode § 87(2)(b)'s bike back to the stationhouse and searched the trunk compartment of the bike (Allegations C and D: Abuse of Authority, exonerated).

§ 87(4-b), § 87(2)(g)

There is no video footage of this incident.

This incident resulted in an arrest, but it was ultimately voided and § 87(2)(b) was released with four summonses for operating a vehicle without a license, and operating an unregistered, uninspected, and uninsured moped.

Findings and Recommendations

Allegation (A) In the vicinity of § 87(2)(b) and § 87(2)(b) and the 47th Precinct stationhouse in the Bronx, Police Officer Donald Harris detained § 87(2)(b)

Allegation (C) At the 47th Precinct stationhouse, Police Officer Donald Harris seized § 87(2)(b)'s property.

Allegation (D) At the 47th Precinct stationhouse, Police Officer Donald Harris searched the vehicle in which § 87(2)(b) was an occupant.

It is undisputed that PO Harris detained § 87(2)(b) seized his bike, and searched it at the 47th Precinct stationhouse.

§ 87(2)(b)'s (BR 01) brother, § 87(2)(b) § 87(2)(b) had shortly before this incident given § 87(2)(b) a gasoline-powered 2013 white Honda bike with a brown seat and a white trunk compartment. § 87(2)(b) described the bike as a “scooter.” The bike did not have license plates and was not registered. § 87(2)(b) does not have a driver’s license.

On April 29, 2017, at approximately 1 p.m., § 87(2)(b) rode his bike to his mother’s house, at § 87(2)(b) in the Bronx. § 87(2)(b) was wearing a blue polo shirt, ripped jeans, blue slippers, and a yellow helmet.

As § 87(2)(b) was arriving at his mother’s house, he noticed a marked police van on § 87(2)(b) about a block away parked behind another vehicle. § 87(2)(b) did not see any officers outside the vehicle nor were the lights and sirens of the police van activated. § 87(2)(b) parked the bike outside of his mother’s house and went inside.

After about 30 to 40 minutes, § 87(2)(b) exited his mother’s house, got on his bike, drove past the police van, and made a left onto an unknown street. § 87(2)(b) noticed the police van following slowly behind him. § 87(2)(b) made another left turn and continued riding the bike. When he arrived at the next stop sign, he looked behind at the police vehicle, and proceeded to make a right turn. § 87(2)(b) did not remember the names of the streets onto which he was turning.

After approximately 15 minutes of the police van following him, § 87(2)(b) stopped his bike on his own will on an unknown street. The police van pulled next to § 87(2)(b) and § 87(2)(b) asked, “Officer, is there any problem?” An officer sitting in the passenger’s seat, identified by the investigation as PO Harris, said, “Get off that bike. You got ID on you?” to which § 87(2)(b) replied, “Yeah,” got off his bike, and stood next to it on the sidewalk. The officer driving the van and an officer sitting in the back seat, identified by the investigation as PO Perez and PO Londono, exited the van. PO Perez and PO Londono stood on § 87(2)(b)’s right and left on the sidewalk, while PO Harris stood directly in front of § 87(2)(b).

PO Harris asked § 87(2)(b) if he had ever been arrested and § 87(2)(b) explained that he had been arrested for a burglary and was on probation. § 87(2)(b) handed PO Harris his benefit card (BR 02), as it was the only form of identification he had on him.

After § 87(2)(b) gave PO Harris his benefit card, PO Harris walked to the driver’s side of the van while PO Perez and PO Londono remained with § 87(2)(b) on the sidewalk. PO Harris quickly walked back toward § 87(2)(b). PO Perez or PO Londono asked PO Harris, “Are you taking him in?” to which PO Harris responded, “Yeah,” and gave a thumbs up.

PO Harris told § 87(2)(b) to turn around. § 87(2)(b) asked why he was being arrested, and PO Harris told § 87(2)(b) that his identification was not in fact his. PO Harris grabbed § 87(2)(b)’s right arm and either PO Perez or PO Londono grabbed his left arm and pulled both his arms behind his back. PO Harris, PO Perez, and PO Londono held § 87(2)(b) front-first against a wall as they handcuffed him.

After § 87(2)(b) (BR 01) was arrested, he was placed in the police van. Either PO Perez or PO Londono drove the van back to the stationhouse and PO Harris drove § 87(2)(b)’s bike back to the stationhouse.

When § 87(2)(b) arrived at the stationhouse, PO Harris had already arrived. PO Perez and PO Londono stood with § 87(2)(b) outside of the stationhouse. PO Harris asked § 87(2)(b) how to open the trunk of his bike. § 87(2)(b) said to PO Harris, “You took the bike. You took my stuff. You want to ride the bike and got it up here. You don’t know how to open the trunk?” PO Harris responded, “Oh. You’re not going to show me? We’re going to do this. We’re going to be here all day for this.”

§ 87(2)(b) then informed PO Harris that the trunk was opened the same way in which a key is used to start a car. PO Harris looked in the trunk of § 87(2)(b)’s bike. § 87(2)(b) only had tools and an empty plastic bag inside of the trunk.

PO Harris brought § 87(2)(b) inside the stationhouse and placed him in a holding cell. When § 87(2)(b) contacted his wife, § 87(2)(b) he asked her to bring his identification and passport to the stationhouse, which § 87(2)(b) did. PO Harris fingerprinted § 87(2)(b) and told him he was going to “get up out of here.” Between 10 p.m. and 11 p.m., PO Harris put four summonses (BR 03) inside of § 87(2)(b)’s bike helmet and § 87(2)(b) was released.

According to PO Harris (BR 04), at approximately 7:50 p.m., he and his partners, PO Perez and PO Londono were performing patrol in the area of § 87(2)(b) in the Bronx in a marked police van.

PO Harris was driving the van, PO Perez was in the passenger’s seat, and PO Londono was in the back seat. PO Harris noticed § 87(2)(b) riding a white Honda moped without license plates on § 87(2)(b). PO Harris began to follow § 87(2)(b) for less than a block, activated the van’s lights and sirens, and pulled § 87(2)(b) over at the intersection of § 87(2)(b) and § 87(2)(b). § 87(2)(b) immediately pulled over.

PO Harris, PO Perez, and PO Londono exited the van. PO Harris confirmed that there were no license plates on the moped when he exited the vehicle. Besides operating a moped without license plates, PO Harris did not suspect § 87(2)(b) of committing any other crimes or violations at this time.

PO Harris asked for § 87(2)(b)'s license, registration, and insurance for the moped. § 87(2)(b) only gave PO Harris a New York State benefit card, which included § 87(2)(b)'s name and date of birth, from his wallet. PO Harris conducted a name inquiry on his department cell phone with the name and date of birth listed on § 87(2)(b)'s benefit card, § 87(2)(b). However, the results of the inquiry only returned the name "§ 87(2)(b) § 87(2)(b)" as matching § 87(2)(b)'s date of birth. § 87(2)(b) § 87(2)(b) had an active bench warrant. Photographs associated with this inquiry often do not load in the field due to slow software on department cell phones. PO Harris later learned that § 87(2)(b) § 87(2)(b) is § 87(2)(b)'s brother.

PO Harris asked § 87(2)(b) if the name and date of birth on the benefit card were in fact his, and § 87(2)(b) responded that they were. Because the name inquiry only returned the name, "§ 87(2)(b) § 87(2)(b)" who had an active bench warrant, PO Harris asked § 87(2)(b) to put his hands behind his back. § 87(2)(b) complied and PO Harris put § 87(2)(b) into handcuffs and arrested him for the active bench warrant that was associated with the name returned on the inquiry, "§ 87(2)(b) § 87(2)(b)".

PO Harris provided the investigation with a copy of the department inquiry detailed report that was printed on the day of the incident, which revealed that the same name, "§ 87(2)(b) § 87(2)(b)" was returned on PO Harris' department cell phone at the scene of § 87(2)(b)'s arrest (BR 06).

After § 87(2)(b) was put into handcuffs, he was placed into the back of the police van. § 87(2)(b) was taken back to the stationhouse for further investigation as to the status of the bench warrant, § 87(2)(b)'s driving status, and the status of the moped to ensure it was not stolen. PO Perez and PO Londono drove § 87(2)(b) back to the stationhouse, while PO Harris transported the moped back to the stationhouse, as it is department policy to do so in order to complete the investigation.

PO Harris, PO Perez, PO Londono, and § 87(2)(b) arrived at the stationhouse at the same time. PO Harris took § 87(2)(b) out of the van and walked him inside the stationhouse, searched him in front of the desk, and lodged him in a holding cell.

PO Harris explained that after § 87(2)(b) was lodged in a holding cell, he inventory searched § 87(2)(b)'s moped and removed all property stored inside the compartment under the seat. The compartment opened with a button and did not require a key. The only object inside of the compartment was a bike lock.

PO Harris vouchered the moped as "return to owner" because § 87(2)(b) did not possess ownership papers of the moped. PO Harris created a Property Clerk Invoice for the search (BR 05). § 87(2)(b) never claimed ownership of the moped after he was released with summonses.

PO Harris further explained that once he completed the inventory search of § 87(2)(b)'s moped, he used a department computer to perform a more detailed name inquiry than was performed at the scene of § 87(2)(b)'s arrest. The detailed name inquiry still returned the name "§ 87(2)(b) § 87(2)(b)" and further returned name similarities between § 87(2)(b) and § 87(2)(b) § 87(2)(b) (BR 06). PO Harris drafted an arrest report for false impersonation and fingerprinted § 87(2)(b) though PO Harris could not specify when this occurred (BR 07).

After PO Harris drafted § 87(2)(b)'s arrest report and fingerprinted him, PO Harris received a phone call from the Criminal Justice Department in Albany, which informed him that there was a name conflict between the names "§ 87(2)(b) § 87(2)(b) and § 87(2)(b) based upon § 87(2)(b)'s fingerprints. The Criminal Justice Department in Albany informed PO Harris that the name that was returned based upon § 87(2)(b)'s fingerprints was in fact § 87(2)(b).

PO Harris spoke to his sergeant, whose name he could not remember, about the phone call he received from Albany. It was then decided that § 87(2)(b) would be released with four moving summonses and PO Harris voided § 87(2)(b)'s arrest. PO Harris did not recall what § 87(2)(b) was issued the summonses for (BR 03).

PO Harris brought a copy of § 87(2)(b)'s Prisoner Movement Slip, which contains § 87(2)(b)'s photograph (BR 07), a copy of page 1 of the DAS Snapshot, which contains a picture of § 87(2)(b) § 87(2)(b) (BR 06), and page 3 of the Detailed DAS Snapshot, which PO Harris explained cannot be viewed in the field (BR 08).

PO Harris noted that § 87(2)(b) § 87(2)(b)'s photograph on page 1 of the DAS Snapshot and § 87(2)(b)'s photograph in the Prisoner Movement Slip look extremely similar (BR 06-07). Photographs do not always appear in name inquiries conducted in the field on department cell phone due to slow software.

PO Harris explained that page 3 of the Detailed DAS Snapshot, which is too long to be viewed in the field, includes a Name Graph (BR 06). The Name Graph revealed that the name § 87(2)(b) has been provided to the NYPD 48 times and the name "§ 87(2)(b) § 87(2)(b)" has been provided to the NYPD 52 times on various police documentation. As such, the Name Graph revealed that § 87(2)(b) § 87(2)(b) and § 87(2)(b) have both used each other's name on different police documentation.

§ 87(2)(b)'s arrest was voided and he was released with four summonses for operating a vehicle without a license; the uninsured moped; the uninspected moped; and the unregistered moped (BR 03).

§ 87(2)(g)
§ 87(2)(b) PO Perez explained that § 87(2)(b) was only stopped for not having license plates on the moped. PO Perez did not remember if any officer at the scene obtained identification from § 87(2)(b). PO Perez added that § 87(2)(b) was upset that he was stopped and told the officers that they had no reason to stop him. PO Harris explained to § 87(2)(b) that the moped did not have license plates and was not registered. PO Perez did not remember how it was determined that the moped was unregistered.

PO Perez stated that § 87(2)(b) was placed under arrest because the moped did not have license plates. § 87(2)(b) "tussled" with the officers by holding his hands in front of his body. PO Perez, PO Harris, and PO Londono all assisted in placing § 87(2)(b) under arrest by grabbing § 87(2)(b)'s arms.

PO Harris drove § 87(2)(b)'s moped back to the stationhouse, as PO Harris was comfortable riding motorcycles. The moped was taken back to the stationhouse to prevent it from being stolen. PO Perez and PO Londono transported § 87(2)(b) to the back to the stationhouse in the van. PO Londono drove and PO Perez was in the passenger's seat.

After § 87(2)(b) was brought inside the stationhouse, PO Perez went behind the desk and did not have further contact with § 87(2)(b). PO Perez did not see PO Harris search § 87(2)(b)'s moped.

A few hours later, PO Harris informed PO Perez that § 87(2)(b) was released with summonses. PO Perez did not recall learning that § 87(2)(b)'s information listed in a name inquiry returned the name of his brother, § 87(2)(b) § 87(2)(b).

According to PO Londono (BR 10), PO Harris observed § 87(2)(b) riding a moped without valid license plates. PO Harris informed PO Londono and PO Perez that there were no license plates on the vehicle, and PO Harris therefore decided to pull over § 87(2)(b). PO Londono confirmed that § 87(2)(b)'s moped did not have license plates once PO Londono exited the van. § 87(2)(b) was only pulled over for this reason.

PO Londono stated that PO Harris told him and PO Perez that he was going to arrest § 87(2)(b). PO Harris told PO Londono and PO Perez why he was going to arrest § 87(2)(b) but PO Londono did not remember the explanation PO Harris provided.

PO Harris told § 87(2)(b) to put his hands behind his back and § 87(2)(b) complied and did not resist. PO Londono did not assist in placing § 87(2)(b) under arrest. § 87(2)(b) asked why he was being arrested and PO Harris explained it to him. PO Londono did not remember why § 87(2)(b) was arrested.

PO Londono was consistent with PO Harris and PO Perez in that PO Harris was the officer to drive the moped back to the stationhouse. PO Londono explained that the moped did not have proper plates or a registration to be on New York City streets, and therefore had to be taken into police custody as per procedure.

PO Londono drove the van back to the precinct, as PO Perez was not van certified. PO Perez was in the passenger's seat and § 87(2)(b) was in the back. When they arrived at the stationhouse, PO Londono and PO Perez walked § 87(2)(b) inside the stationhouse. PO Londono did not see Harris search § 87(2)(b)'s moped.

PO Londono did not have further contact with § 87(2)(b) after he brought him inside the stationhouse, as PO Londono changed assignments. PO Londono never learned anything further regarding § 87(2)(b)'s arrest at a later time.

When an individual is detained, an officer should diligently pursue a means of investigation that is likely to confirm or dispel their suspicions quickly, during which time it was necessary to detain the defendant. People v. Hicks 68 N.Y.2d 234 (1986) (BR 11).

When further investigation reveals that the person arrested did not commit the offense or it is determined that no offense has been committed, a person taken into custody should be released. Patrol Guide Procedure 210-13 (BR 12).

In order for the impounding of a vehicle not to violate the Fourth Amendment, there must be probable cause to believe that the car is connected to criminal activity or it furthers Police community caretaking functions. Valid reasons for impounding a vehicle include reasonable basis to believe that the car cannot be operated because it is unregistered, uninsured, or uninspected, or the car was driven by an unlicensed driver or a driver whose license is suspended and there is no one who is legally able to drive the car. People v. Confessore 12 Misc. 3d 1192[A] (2006) (BR 13).

A "moped" is a common term for a "limited use motorcycle," described in VTL 121-b as a "limited use vehicle having two or three wheels, with a seat or saddle for the operator," which may be operated upon public streets only with proper registration, a driver's license or learner's permit, and depending on the type of moped, insurance. In re Vincent H. 3 Misc. 3d 900 (2004) (BR 14).

Vehicles and/or property coming into police custody must be invoiced and properly classified as arrest evidence, investigatory evidence, for forfeiture proceedings, or to determine true owner. Patrol Guide Procedure 218-19 (BR 15).

When an automobile comes into police custody, police officers must search the interior of the vehicle thoroughly, including compartments, consoles and trunks. All valuables should be removed and invoiced on a separate Property Clerk Invoice. Patrol Guide Procedure 218-13 (BR 16).

Once a vehicle is impounded, the vehicle is subject to an inventory search. The inventory search must be conducted pursuant to ‘an established procedure clearly limiting the conduct of individual officers that assures that the searches are carried out consistently and reasonably.’ The Court determined that section 218-13 of the New York City Police Department Patrol Guide qualifies as such procedure. People v. Grant 17 Misc. 3d 1102[A] (2007) (BR 17).

The hallmark of an inventory search is a meaningful inventory list. The policy or practice governing an inventory search should be designed to produce an inventory. People v. Johnson 1 N.Y.3d 252 (2003) (BR 18).

Allegation (B) En route to the 47th Precinct stationhouse, Police Officer John Londono spoke discourteously to § 87(2)(b)

§ 87(2)(b)'s wife, and § 87(2)(b) originally filed this complaint with the CCRB via telephone on May 5, 2017 (case number § 87(2)(b) § 87(2)(g))

§ 87(2)(b) filed this complaint again with IAB on November 20, 2017, which was referred to the 47th Precinct in the form of a communication (BR 25). § 87(2)(b) did not believe that § 87(2)(b) was justifiably stopped. IAB conducted an investigation into the stop, which included interviewing PO Harris. The disposition of IAB's investigation was exonerated. During this complaint, § 87(2)(b) did not make any allegation of discourteous language on behalf of § 87(2)(b)

§ 87(2)(b) contacted IAB a second time on December 1, 2017 (BR 26), as she had received a call from an unidentified IAB officer on the same day. § 87(2)(b) reiterated the complaint she made on November 20, 2017, but added that PO Harris told § 87(2)(b) “Shut the fuck up. You’ll find out when we get to the precinct” when § 87(2)(b) asked why he was being arrested. § 87(2)(b) did not actually witness the incident.

During § 87(2)(b)'s telephone statement (BR 22), § 87(2)(b) was also on the line and interjected into § 87(2)(b)'s account of the incident several times, though she did not witness the incident. § 87(2)(b) initially stated that PO Harris told him to “shut up” at the scene of his arrest when he asked why he was being arrested. After § 87(2)(b) said PO Harris told him to “shut up,” § 87(2)(b) said, “No. Wait. Hold on.” At this point, § 87(2)(b) corrected himself and said that PO Harris told him to “shut the fuck up.” § 87(2)(b) made no mention of PO Londono or PO Perez telling him to “shut the fuck up” during this statement.

On a follow up telephone call, § 87(2)(b) then stated that PO Harris, PO Perez, and PO Londono all told him to “shut the fuck up” (BR 23).

In his sworn statement, § 87(2)(b) (BR 01) stated that the officer driving the van told him to “shut the fuck up” while he was being driven back to the stationhouse, and the officer sitting in the passenger’s seat just told him to “shut up.”

§ 87(2)(b) made very little distinction between the officer driving the van back to the stationhouse and the officer in the passenger’s seat. § 87(2)(b) described the officer driving the van as a black or Hispanic male with shaved down brown hair, black eyes, shorter than 5’11”, solid build, and approximately in his 30s. § 87(2)(b) described the officer in the passenger’s seat as a Hispanic male with black hair, a few inches shorter than 5’11,” stocky or muscular build, and approximately in his 30s.

According to PO Londono’s MOS photograph, he is a Hispanic male, 5’6” tall, average build, and 26 years old (BR 27). The pedigree information with PO Perez’s MOS photograph revealed that PO Perez is a Hispanic male with black hair, 5’08” tall, average build, and 29 years old (BR 28).

Both PO Londono (BR 10) and PO Perez (BR 09) were consistent in that PO Londono was the officer to drive the van back to the stationhouse with § 87(2)(b) PO Londono explained that PO Perez is not van certified, and PO Perez, therefore, could not have been the officer driving the van.

§ 87(2)(g)

PO Londono (BR 10) denied telling § 87(2)(b) to “shut the fuck up” en route to the 47th Precinct stationhouse or using any profanity during the incident. PO Perez (BR 09) did not hear any officer at the scene tell § 87(2)(b) to “shut the fuck up” or otherwise use profanity during the incident.
