POLLAK, A

Plaintiff Bienvenido Manon by his attorneys, Stoll, Glickman & Bellina, LLP, for his complaint alleges as follows:

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. This is a civil rights action in which plaintiff seeks relief through 42 U.S.C. §1983 for the violation of his Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment rights in addition to violations of the laws and Constitution of the State of New York.

2. The claim arises from a December 22, 2010 incident during which Officers of the New York City Police Department ("NYPD"), acting under color of state law, arrested plaintiff just outside his apartment doorway for trespassing. This was his first arrest. While in handcuffs, an officer pepper-sprayed plaintiff in the back of the van, refused to loosen handcuffs, and refused him medical attention.

3. Plaintiff seeks monetary damages (special, compensatory, and punitive) against defendants, as well as an award of costs and attorneys' fees, and such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

JURISDICTION

4. This action arises under the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution and under 42 U.S.C. §1983 and §1988 and the laws and Constitution of the State of New York.

5. The jurisdiction of this court is predicated upon 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331, 1343(a)(3) and (4), 1367(a) and the doctrine of pendent jurisdiction.

6. The amount in controversy exceeds $75,000.00 excluding interest and costs.

VENUE

7. Venue is laid within the Eastern District of New York in that Defendant City of New York is located within and a substantial part of the events giving rise to the claim occurred within the boundaries of the Eastern District.

PARTIES

8. Plaintiff resided at all times here relevant in Kings County, City and State of New York.

9. The City of New York (or "the City") is a municipal corporation organized under the laws of the State of New York. At all times relevant hereto, Defendant City, acting through the New York Police Department (or "NYPD"), was responsible for the policy, practice, supervision, implementation, and conduct of all NYPD matters and was responsible for the appointment, training, supervision, discipline and retention and conduct of all NYPD personnel. In addition, at all times here relevant, Defendant City was responsible for enforcing the rules of the NYPD, and for ensuring that the NYPD personnel obey the laws of the United States and the State of New York.

10. Police Officer McDowell was, at all times here relevant, a police officer of the NYPD, and as such was acting in the capacity of an agent, servant and employee of the City of New York. On information and belief, at all times relevant hereto, Defendant McDowell was involved in the decision to arrest plaintiff without probable cause or failed to intervene in the actions of his fellow officers when he observed them arresting plaintiff without probable cause. Upon information and belief, defendant McDowell was under the command of the Brooklyn North Narcotic Borough on the date of the incident. On information and belief, at all times relevant hereto, Defendant McDowell was under the command of the Brooklyn North Narcotic Borough and is sued in his individual capacity.

11. Police Officer Steven Richardson was, at all times here relevant, a police officer of the NYPD, and as such was acting in the capacity of an agent, servant and employee of the City of New York. On information and belief, at all times relevant hereto, Defendant Richardson was involved in the decision to arrest plaintiff without probable cause or failed to intervene in the actions of his fellow officers when he observed them arresting plaintiff without probable cause. Upon information and belief, defendant Richardson was under the command of the Brooklyn North Narcotic Borough on the date of the incident. On information and belief, at all times relevant hereto, Defendant Richardson was under the command of the Brooklyn North Narcotic Borough and is sued in his individual capacity.

12. At all times here mentioned defendants were acting under color of state law, to wit, under color of the statutes, ordinances, regulations, policies, customs and usages of the City and State of New York.

NOTICE OF CLAIM

13. Within 90 days of the events giving rise to these claims, plaintiff filed written notices of claim with the New York City Office of the Comptroller. Over 30 days have elapsed since the filing of those notices, and this matter has not been settled or otherwise disposed of.

FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

14. On December 22, 2010, at approximately 2:50 p.m. plaintiff was at home in his apartment at 542 Marcy Avenue, Brooklyn, New York. During the time of the incident, he was receiving a lifetime pension benefit from 1199 SEIU after resigning from his nursing aid job at Daughter of Jacobs Nursing Home, where he worked for ten years, due to his medical conditions, which included high blood pressure, diabetes, hypertension and osteoarthritis. He had never been arrested before in his life.

15. Plaintiff was showering when his nephew told him someone was at the door.

16. Plaintiff went to the door wrapped in his towel and observed a man with a dog. The man asked if the dog was his and plaintiff said no. He was dressed in regular clothing.

17. The man announced he was a police officer and ordered plaintiff to get dressed and step into the hallway with some identification.

18. Plaintiff went into his bedroom and the officer followed, yelling at him from inside his living room to "hurry".

19. Plaintiff went into the hallway with his identification.

20. One of the officers pulled out handcuffs and told plaintiff he was under arrest for putting the dog on the roof.

21. Plaintiff complied with all of the officers' orders and allowed them to handcuff him.

22. They took him downstairs, transferred him to 2 other police officers who put him in a police van for several hours while they drove around.

23. While plaintiff was sitting in the van in handcuffs, plaintiff, who suffers from high blood pressure and diabetes, begged the officers to turn down the heat because he felt weak and faint. An officer sprayed plaintiff with pepper-spray and told him to be quiet.

24. At the 90th precinct, plaintiff asked a sergeant if he could speak to a Spanish speaking officer to explain he didn't put any dog on the roof. The sergeant pushed plaintiff and he almost fell on the floor.

25. Plaintiff was put inside the police van again. While inside the police van, plaintiff asked for medical attention because he needed his daily blood pressure and diabetes medication. The officers ignored him and brought him to Central Booking.

26. Plaintiff's hands and arms were swollen from the handcuffs. In the van, he asked if they could loosen the tight handcuffs and the officers refused. Plaintiff's arms and hands continued to swell. When plaintiff asked again to be taken the hospital at Central Booking, defendants told him not to go because it would delay his release.

27. Plaintiff was charged with three counts of trespass for being on the roof of his building.

28. Officer McDowell made false statements in his supporting deposition that plaintiff told him he put a dog on the roof.

29. Plaintiff consented to an adjournment in contemplation of dismissal at arraignments.

30. Immediately after plaintiff was released, he went to the hospital. Medical staff observed severely limited range of motion in his wrists, swelling and erythema and his blood pressure was very high during triage. He was diagnosed with a sprain, treated and released.

31. Plaintiff followed up with his primary care provider who referred him to occupational therapy for his hands, which he continued for several months.

32. At all times during the events described above, the defendant police officers were engaged in a joint venture and formed an agreement to violate plaintiff's rights. The individual officers assisted each other in performing the various actions described and lent their physical presence and support and the authority of their office to each other during said events. They failed to intervene in the obviously illegal actions of their fellow officers against plaintiff.

33. During all of the events above described, defendants acted maliciously and with intent to injure plaintiff.

DAMAGES

34. As a direct and proximate result of the acts of defendants, plaintiff suffered the following injuries and damages:

- a. Violation of his rights pursuant to the Fourth Amendment of the United States Constitution to be free from an unreasonable search and seizure of their persons;
- b. Violation of his rights pursuant to the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution to due process;

- c. Violation of his New York State Constitutional rights under Article 1, Section 12 to be free from an unreasonable search and seizure;
- d. Violation of his New York State Constitutional rights under Article 1, Section 6 to due process;
- e. Physical pain and suffering;
- f. Emotional trauma and suffering, including fear, embarrassment, humiliation, emotional distress, frustration, extreme inconvenience, anxiety; and
- g. Loss of liberty.

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION

42 U.S.C. § 1983

False Arrest and False Imprisonment
(Against Officer Defendants)

- 35. The above paragraphs are here incorporated by reference.
- 36. The officer defendants wrongfully and illegally arrested, detained and imprisoned plaintiff.
- 37. The wrongful, unjustifiable, and unlawful apprehension, arrest, detention, and imprisonment of plaintiff was carried out without a valid warrant, without plaintiff's consent, and without probable cause or reasonable suspicion.
- 38. At all relevant times, defendants acted forcibly in apprehending, arresting, and imprisoning plaintiff.
- 39. Throughout this period, plaintiff was unlawfully, wrongfully, and unjustifiably held under arrest, deprived of his liberty, imprisoned and falsely charged.
- 40. At all times, the unlawful, wrongful, and false arrest and imprisonment of plaintiff was without basis and without probable cause or reasonable suspicion.
- 41. All of this occurred without any illegal conduct by plaintiff.

42. Plaintiff consented to an adjournment in contemplation of dismissal at his first court appearance.

43. The officer defendants acted under pretense and color of state law and in their individual and official capacities and within the scope of their respective employment as NYPD officers. Said acts by officer defendants were beyond the scope of their jurisdiction, without authority of law, and in abuse of their powers, and said defendants acted willfully, knowingly and with the specific intent to deprive plaintiff of his constitutional rights secured by the United States Constitution.

44. As a direct and proximate result of the misconduct and the abuse of authority detailed above, plaintiff sustained the damages described above.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
New York State Constitution Article I §12
False Arrest and False Imprisonment
(Against All Defendants)

45. The above paragraphs are here incorporated by reference.

46. The officer defendants wrongfully and illegally arrested, detained and imprisoned plaintiff.

47. The wrongful, unjustifiable, and unlawful apprehension, arrest, detention, and imprisonment of plaintiff was carried out without a valid warrant, without plaintiff's consent, and without probable cause or reasonable suspicion.

48. At all relevant times, defendants acted forcibly in apprehending, arresting, and imprisoning plaintiff.

49. Throughout this period, plaintiff was unlawfully, wrongfully, and unjustifiably held under arrest, deprived of his liberty, imprisoned and falsely charged.

50. At all times, the unlawful, wrongful, and false arrest and imprisonment of plaintiff was without basis and without probable cause or reasonable suspicion.

51. All of this occurred without any illegal conduct by plaintiff.

52. Plaintiff consented to an adjournment in contemplation of dismissal at his first court appearance.

53. Defendants, their officers, agents, servants and employees, were responsible for plaintiff's arrest, detention and imprisonment during this period of time. Defendant City, as employer of Officer Defendants, is responsible for their wrongdoing under the doctrine of respondeat superior.

54. Defendants acted with a knowing, willful, wanton, grossly reckless, unlawful, unreasonable, unconscionable, and flagrant disregard of plaintiff's rights, privileges, welfare, and well-being and are guilty of egregious and gross misconduct towards plaintiff.

55. The officer defendants acted under pretense and color of state law and in their individual and official capacities and within the scope of their respective employment as NYPD officers. Said acts by officer defendants were beyond the scope of their jurisdiction, without authority of law, and in abuse of their powers, and said defendants acted willfully, knowingly and with the specific intent to deprive plaintiff of his constitutional rights secured by the Constitution of the State of New York.

56. As a direct and proximate result of the misconduct and the abuse of authority detailed above, plaintiff sustained the damages described above.

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION
False Arrest and False Imprisonment
(Against All Defendants)

57. The above paragraphs are here incorporated by reference.

58. Defendants subjected plaintiff to false arrest, false imprisonment, and deprivation of liberty without probable cause.

59. Defendants intended to confine plaintiff, plaintiff was conscious of his confinement and did not consent to his confinement.

60. Plaintiff consented to an adjournment in contemplation of dismissal at his first court appearance.

61. Defendants, their officers, agents, servants and employees, were responsible for plaintiff's arrest, detention and imprisonment during this period of time. Defendant City, as employer of Officer Defendants, is responsible for their wrongdoing under the doctrine of respondeat superior.

62. As a direct and proximate result of the misconduct and the abuse of authority detailed above, plaintiff sustained the damages described above.

FOURTH CAUSE OF ACTION

42 U.S.C. §1983

Excessive Force

(Against Officer Defendants)

63. The above paragraphs are here incorporated by reference.

64. By using excessive force against plaintiff, and failing to intervene on behalf of one another's unlawful and unconstitutional conduct, defendants deprived plaintiff of his rights, remedies, privileges, and immunities guaranteed to every citizen of the United States, in violation of 42 U.S.C. §1983, including, but not limited to, rights guaranteed by the Fourth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

65. In addition, the officer defendants conspired amongst themselves to deprive plaintiff of his constitutional rights and took numerous steps in furtherance of such conspiracy, as set forth above.

66. The officer defendants acted under pretense and color of state law and in their individual and official capacities and within the scope of their respective employment as NYPD officers. Said acts by officer defendants were beyond the scope of their jurisdiction, without authority of law, and in abuse of their powers, and said defendants acted willfully, knowingly and with the specific intent to deprive plaintiff of his constitutional rights secured by the United States Constitution.

67. As a direct and proximate result of the misconduct and the abuse of authority detailed above, plaintiff sustained the damages described above.

FIFTH CAUSE OF ACTION
New York State Constitution Art. I § 12
Excessive Force
(Against All Defendants)

68. The above paragraphs are here incorporated by reference.

69. By using excessive force against plaintiff, and failing to intervene on behalf of one another's unlawful and unconstitutional conduct, defendants deprived plaintiff of his rights, remedies, privileges, and immunities guaranteed to every citizen of the United States, in violation of 42 U.S.C. §1983, including, but not limited to, rights guaranteed by Article I Section 12 of the New York State Constitution.

70. In addition, the officer defendants conspired amongst themselves to deprive plaintiff of his constitutional rights and took numerous steps in furtherance of such conspiracy, as set forth above.

71. Defendants, their officers, agents, servants and employees, were responsible for plaintiff's arrest, detention and imprisonment during this period of time. Defendant City, as employer of Officer Defendants, is responsible for their wrongdoing under the doctrine of respondeat superior.

72. The officer defendants acted under pretense and color of state law and in their individual and official capacities and within the scope of their respective employment as NYPD officers. Said acts by officer defendants were beyond the scope of their jurisdiction, without authority of law, and in abuse of their powers, and said defendants acted willfully, knowingly and with the specific intent to deprive plaintiff of his constitutional rights secured by the New York State Constitution.

73. As a direct and proximate result of the misconduct and the abuse of authority detailed above, plaintiff sustained the damages described above.

SIXTH CAUSE OF ACTION

Assault and Battery
(Against All Defendants)

74. The above paragraphs are here incorporated by reference.

75. Upon handcuffing, escorting against his will, transporting against his will, pepper-spraying and pushing plaintiff, defendants made plaintiff fear for his physical well-being and safety and placed him in apprehension of immediate harmful and/or offensive touching.

76. Defendants engaged in and subjected plaintiff to immediate harmful and/or offensive touching and battered him without his consent.

77. Defendants used excessive and unnecessary force with plaintiff.

78. Defendants, their officers, agents, servants and employees, were responsible for plaintiff's arrest, detention and imprisonment during this period of time. Defendant City, as employer of Officer Defendants, is responsible for their wrongdoing under the doctrine of respondeat superior.

79. As a direct and proximate result of the misconduct and the abuse of authority detailed above, plaintiff sustained the damages described above.

SEVENTH CAUSE OF ACTION
MUNICIPAL AND SUPERVISORY LIABILITY
(Against Defendant City)

80. The above paragraphs are here incorporated by reference.

81. The aforesaid event underlying plaintiff's factual allegations was not an isolated incident. Specifically, the City has been alerted to the unjustified arrests made by officers in NYCHA buildings by individual civil rights litigants in federal court but also by the class action lawsuit, Davis, et al. v. the City of New York, et al., 10-cv-00699-SAS (SDNY), filed January 28, 2010, in which the City is alerted to the NYPD's implementation of an "unlawful vertical patrol and trespass arrest policy which has resulted in a pattern and practice of illegal stops, seizures, questioning, searches, and false arrests of residents of, and authorized visitors to, NYCHA residents." "Under the vertical patrol policy and trespass arrest practices, New York City Police Department officer conduct roving pedestrian checkpoints in and around NYCHA residences, wherein they indiscriminately stop and question every person they observe, without objective individualized suspicion of a crime and unlawfully arrest individuals for trespass without probable cause". "As a result, the number of trespass arrests in NYCHA residences has increased dramatically in recent years, without any reasoned justification or correlative rise in criminal activity. Instead, people with a legitimate reason for being on NYCHA property are being unconstitutionally detained and/or arrested on a routine basis." See Davis, et al. v. City of New York, et al., at ¶¶2-5.

82. Davis, et al v. City of New York, et al also alerts the City to the policy of "vertical patrols" in NYCHA residences by NYPD in which officers operate "roving pedestrian checkpoints” and stop and question individuals without individualized reasonable suspicion but instead with indiscriminate stops, seizures, questioning, searches and arrests of individuals in common areas of NYCHA buildings. Id. at ¶¶ 126-148. Also, NYPD has failed to provide adequate training to officers regarding how to conduct patrols and make legal inquiries based on individualized suspicion, causing a pattern of unlawful stops and seizures not based on individualized suspicion.

83. Finally, Davis alerts defendants to the NYPD’s failure to supervise or discipline officers who unlawfully stop, seize, question or arrest individuals for trespass without individualized reasonable suspicion. There is no mechanism through which the District Attorney’s office reports to officers when their cases have been dismissed based on a finding of an unlawful stop, inquiry or arrest. This disconnect has led defendant officers to continue to make arrests without probable cause or reasonable suspicion, as they did in plaintiff’s case.

84. The City’s continuing failure to deter police misconduct has led to ever increasing numbers of lawsuits for repeat routine misconduct by the same officers, same units and same precincts. In 2010, New York City paid out $136 million¹ for the fiscal year, compared to 2009, when it paid out more than $117 million, and 2008, when it paid $80 million.² In the past ten years, the City of New York has paid nearly a billion dollars on lawsuits brought against the NYPD.³ More than 40% of those settlements in 2011 stem from excessive force and false arrest.

85. The widely held assumption is that civil rights lawsuits deter police misconduct. “The purpose of § 1983 is to deter state actors from using the badge of their authority to deprive individuals of their federally guaranteed rights and to provide relief to victims if such deterrence fails. Wyatt v. Cole, 504 U.S. 158, 161, (1992) citing Carey v. Piphus, 435 U.S. 247, 254-257, (1978). “As far as we know, civil liability is an effective deterrent [to civil rights violations], as we have assumed it is in other contexts.” See Hudson v. Michigan 547 U.S. 586, 598 (2006) citing Correctional Services Corp. v. Malesko, 534 U.S. 61, 70 (2001) and Nix v. Williams, 467 U.S. 431, 446, (1984). “It is almost axiomatic that the threat of damages has a deterrent effect (citation omitted) surely particularly so when the individual official faces personal financial liability.” Carlson v. Green, 446 U.S. 14, 21, (1980), citing Imbler v. Pachtman, 424 U.S. 409, 442, and footnote 6 (1976).

86. However, the City of New York has isolated NYPD officers from accountability for its civil rights lawsuits and, as a result, is preventing civil rights lawsuits from having any deterrent value to the City, the NYPD or its officers. Civil rights lawsuits against police officers have no impact on the officers’ careers, regardless of the expense to the City of the officers’ lawsuit liability, even after multiple lawsuits. In 1999, former Comptroller Alan Hevesi reported that there was a “a total disconnect” between the settlements of even substantial civil claims and police department action against officers. This "total disconnect" between officers' liability and NYPD discipline, results in a system where the City pays vast sums to settle false arrests, but the NYPD does nothing to investigate nor address the underlying causes of such false arrests. The City Council, Government Operations Committee, despite being alerted at a City Council hearing on December 12, 2009, and on other occasions, to the obvious problem of officers and precincts with a disproportionate responsibility for civil rights lawsuit liability, has failed to take action to hold officers or precincts accountable. It has likewise failed to hold an investigative hearing into what extent specific officers, units and precincts are disproportionately responsible for New York City civil rights lawsuits.

87. The City is liable for the damages suffered by plaintiffs in that, after learning of their employees' violation of plaintiffs' constitutional rights, they failed to remedy the wrong; they have created a policy or custom under which unconstitutional practices occurred and allowed such policies or customs to continue, and they have been grossly negligent in managing subordinates who caused the unlawful condition or event.

88. The aforesaid event underlying plaintiffs' factual allegations was not an isolated incident. The City has been aware for some time, from lawsuits, notices of claim, complaints filed with the Civilian Complaint Review Board, and judicial rulings suppressing evidence and finding officers incredible as a matter of law, that a disturbing number of their police officers unlawfully search and seize citizens, bring charges against citizens with no legal basis, perjure themselves in charging instruments and testimony, and fail to intervene in and report the obviously illegal actions of their fellow officers. Nevertheless, the City has allowed policies and practices that allow the aforementioned to persist.

89. The City has been alerted to the regular use of false arrests by its police officers, through lawsuits, civilian complaints, notices of claim, City Council hearings, newspaper reports, and cases resulting in declined prosecutions and dismissals, but has nevertheless exhibited deliberate indifference to such false arrests; that deliberate indifference caused the violation of plaintiff's constitutional rights in this case. In 2009, New York City has seen a 46 percent jump in payouts to settle claims against the NYPD and has paid out more than $117 million in fiscal year 2009, compared to $80 million in 2008.⁴ In the past ten years, the City of New York has paid nearly a billion dollars on lawsuits brought against the NYPD.⁵

90. Nevertheless, the City has repeatedly resisted attempts to catalog even basic information gleaned from civil rights lawsuits that could improve training, leadership, supervision, and discipline in the NYPD. The City's deliberate indifference towards the contents of civil rights litigation, towards individual officers repeatedly named in lawsuits, towards incidents repeatedly occurring in the same precinct, towards patterns of misconduct that arise in civil rights litigation has caused the constitutional violations against plaintiff.

91. Additionally, according to a report of the New York City Bar Association issued in 2000, the City has isolated its law department from the discipline of police officers. Civil rights lawsuits against police officers have no impact on the officers' careers, regardless of the officers' responsibility lawsuit liability, even after multiple lawsuits.

⁴ Mayor Michael Bloomberg's preliminary Management Report for FY 2009, available at <http://www.nyc.gov/html/ops/downloads/pdf/mmr/nypd.pdf>, see page 115, last visited on February 18, 2010.

⁵ "NYPD Has Paid Out Nearly $1 Billion in Claims Over Past Decade," by Associated Press Writers Colleen Long and Jennifer Peltz, <http://www.law.com/jsp/article.jsp?id=1202473432953>, October 15, 2010 last available on December 9, 2010.

Alan Hevesi, as New York City Comptroller, in 1999 reported that there was a "total disconnect" between the settlements of even substantial civil claims and police department action against officers. Nothing has changed since 1999 and the present regarding this "total disconnect" between officers' liability and NYPD discipline, resulting in a system where the City pays vast sums to settle false arrests, but the NYPD does nothing to investigate nor address the underlying causes of such false arrests.

92. Further, the City has no procedure to notify individual officers or their supervisors of unfavorable judicial review of their conduct or to calculate the total liability of an individual officer or of a precinct. Without this notification, improper search and seizure practices and incredible testimony go uncorrected, problematic supervision or leadership at the precinct level goes ignored, and repeated misconduct by individual officers goes unaccounted for. Even occasional judicial findings that officers have testified incredibly are not reported routinely to the police department or any oversight agencies.

93. All of the aforementioned has created a climate where police officers and detectives lie to prosecutors and in police paperwork and charging instruments, and testify falsely, with no fear of reprisal. "Informal inquiry by the court and among the judges of this court, as well as knowledge of cases in other federal and state courts, has revealed anecdotal evidence of repeated, widespread falsification by arresting police officers of the New York City Police Department. Despite numerous inquiries by commissions and strong reported efforts by the present administration-through selection of candidates for the police force stressing academic and other qualifications, serious training to avoid constitutional violations, and strong disciplinary action within the department-there is some evidence of an attitude among officers that is sufficiently widespread to constitute a custom or policy by the city approving illegal conduct of the kind now charged." See Colon v. City of New York, et al, 2009 WL 4263362 (E.D.N.Y.)(Weinstein, J.).

94. The City is aware that all of the aforementioned has resulted in violations of citizens' constitutional rights. Despite such notice, the City has failed to take corrective action. This failure and these policies caused the officers in the present case to violate plaintiffs' civil rights, without fear of reprisal.

95. Plaintiff has been damaged as a result of the deliberate indifference of the Defendant City.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff demands judgment against the defendants, jointly and severally, as follows:

- A. In favor of plaintiff in an amount to be determined by a jury for each of plaintiff's causes of action;
- B. Awarding plaintiff punitive damages in an amount to be determined by a jury;
- C. Awarding plaintiff reasonable attorneys' fees, costs and disbursements of this action; and
- D. Granting such other and further relief as this Court deems just and proper.
